Germany has played an important role in the history of photography. Companies such as Leica and Rollei have contributed significantly to the development of modern photography with their innovative camera systems and lenses. We take a look at whether „Made in Germany“ is still synonymous with high-quality photography today.

Sports photography

Whether in a club, at an event organised by your own children or as a hobby, anyone can take part in sports photography. It doesn't just have to take place at the Olympics or in the football stadium. All you need is the right equipment and the right approach. We show how it can be done with the help of three sports.

Photo backpacks

These days, photo backpacks should not only be practical, but also innovative and stylish. We test models in different price ranges that are suitable for a camera with up to three lenses.
