Shooting 360° panoramas for VR headsets

Vast landscapes and sweeping scenes often only come to life with panoramic techniques. Spectacular auroras that blanket the entire sky and seem to burst overhead can even call for a full-around view to capture everything that's happening. In this article, Katja Seidel explains just how versatile 360° spherical panoramas can be – and the standout ways you can present them.

Gifts for photographers

Birthday, Christmas, or just because – what do you give the photographers in your circle of friends and family? We share ideas ranging from practical gadgets like a camera backpack, a power bank, or an analog film developing kit to smart accessories for printing and displaying. Plus, you'll find inspiration for turning your own photos into heartfelt gifts.

Fall macros

As the weather turns cooler and damper, misty forests and wet meadows reveal compelling subjects for macro photographers. We'll show what you can discover in these two habitats, which gear we recommend, and how to capture stunning results on location.
