

DESINFEC'T

Remove viruses from Windows PCs and rescue personal data
If your computer starts acting strange and, out of nowhere, a ransom note appears on your desktop – or you accidentally opened an attachment from a sketchy email – then it's time for Desinfec't.
To keep a potential virus from causing even more damage, Desinfec't's Linux live system lets you boot straight from a USB drive instead of Windows. To track down threats, it includes antivirus scanners from ESET, IKARUS, and WithSecure, among others. And so the scanners can spot the latest threats, one year of free signature updates is included. With pro tools like Capa and FLOSS, malware specialists can analyze files such as Word documents in multiple ways to uncover malicious code. And if your PC won't start at all, Desinfec't 2026/27 can help you save your most important data to the USB drive.

To make Desinfec't 2026/27 boot on even more PCs and run more reliably, the technical foundation was rebuilt from the ground up. The new AVRunner scan assistant helps you through the process. It strikes a balance between clarity and ease of use – while still keeping you informed about what's happening: it determines and optimizes the scan scope, shows progress, and even notices if a scanner has gotten stuck.
